This PDF Document has been phased OUT.

We often ask ourselves, how can we make our information more accessible and up to date in this digital age?

PDF, as a printable document worked great in the olden days before everyone had internet access or had a tablet on them. But now, we are experiencing more and more drawbacks when we use PDF documents:

Out Dated: we tried to upgrade our PDF version as soon as the main content on the webpage changed. But since we change our content often to incorporate all the feedback that we receive from our loyal clients, we are hardly keep up to editing the PDF version since more and more interactive content and customized layouts appear on the webpage. In addition, if the PDF has been downloaded and opened in an offline location, we will not be able to update that.

Less Information: we cannot put all information on the website into a PDF static document, therefor some of the information is missing from the PDF document we produce. That means that the reader understands less of what we offer or simply misses the great content which they can access online, with access online being so easy and fast these days.

Increase Cost: yes, we have to have someone to prepare the PDF version after the website content been updated.

Therefore, we decided to phase out the PDF version of the website, the manual etc.

So this PDF file, was included in the information about CNC Milling Machines which is available online and you can access at:

See you there.
